

As Maryland's center for language and communication services, Gateway is a nonprofit devoted to ensuring everyone can understand and be understood. Our services range from audiology and speech therapy to interpreting services and sign language classes, and Gateway School serves K-8 children with autism, developmental disabilities, and communication disorders.

The path ahead

In early 2024, we began a collaborative strategic planning process at an exciting time in our history. We were approaching our 100-year anniversary with a new name, a renewed commitment to clinical excellence, and fresh ideas for meeting the dynamic needs of our community.

Through a comprehensive process and input from diverse stakeholders, we established the following strategic priorities to guide our work through FY2027.
